

A SUICIDAL EPIDEMIC.

Tenor Atkinson Puts a Bullet in His Brain.

Two Others Try Poison and One Succeeds.

Edward Quayle Cuts His Throat While Delirious.

Another small suicidal epidemic seems to have struck New York and vicinity. Several attempts at suicide that were reported by the police this morning.

Christian Atkinson, a tenor in the choir of St. Augustine's Church, 376 Jefferson street, made an attempt to kill himself at his home, 68 Jane street, at an early hour this morning, by shooting himself in the right temple with a 22-caliber revolver.

He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital in a comatose condition, and the physicians say he cannot live. The bullet is imbedded in his brain.

Atkinson is twenty-one years old and well known about the district in which he lived, and was a general favorite. He was an industrious young man and lived with his parents. His father, Charles T. Atkinson, is sexton of the Chapel of the Comforter, at Greenwich and Jane streets.

Christian was an only child, and his parents are distracted over his rash act.

Up to last Tuesday young Atkinson was employed by the Whiting Manufacturing Company. That day he went on his vacation. He had been about his home ever since and seemingly was in the best of health and spirits.

Last night he started out to attend choir rehearsal at St. Augustine's Church. He returned early, and told his mother that he had changed his mind.

About 10 o'clock Mrs. Atkinson went into her son's room. He was sitting on a chair, smoking a cigarette. She remarked him for smoking, and he told her to go to bed, and he would stop.

About 7 o'clock this morning she again went to his room, and he was sitting in the same chair, evidently not having slept during the night. By his side was the revolver, and blood was flowing from a wound in his right temple. It was impossible to determine when he had shot himself.

A doctor was summoned, but could do nothing. Atkinson was removed to the hospital, but little hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The elder Atkinson could assign no reason for his son's action. He said he was in good health, was in no trouble, and was mixed up in no love affair, so far as he knew.

TOOK LAUDANUM IN VAIN.

Burns Tried to End His Life After a Quarrel with a Brother.

Thomas Burns, a laborer, thirty years old, attempted suicide at his home, 3 Light street, just after midnight by taking a large dose of laudanum. Burns lived on the top floor of the house with his two brothers.

He drank considerable last night. When he reached home late he had a quarrel with his brother and took a dose of laudanum. A policeman, and the brother, were summoned, but could do nothing. Burns was removed to the hospital, but little hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The elder Atkinson could assign no reason for his son's action. He said he was in good health, was in no trouble, and was mixed up in no love affair, so far as he knew.

SLASHED HIS THROAT.

Edward Quayle Kills Himself This Morning with a Razor.

Edward Quayle, thirty-eight years old, of 350 Degraw street, Brooklyn, committed suicide shortly after 3 o'clock this morning by cutting his throat with a razor. He lived with his sister Mary.

For several days he has been drinking heavily, and it is supposed that he killed himself while in a fit of delirium.

A few minutes before he killed himself he was heard moving around in the dining-room. Then a crash was heard, and a razor was found on the floor.

Now, because this is the season when accumulated impurities are most dangerous, causing that tired feeling, loss of appetite or more serious disease.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Best Spring Medicine, Nerve Tonic, and Vitalizer. It

Purifies the Blood

Gives it richness and vitality, raises the health tone, creates an appetite, in fact

Makes People Well

Be sure to get Hood's and only Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Be sure to get Hood's and only Hood's, because

CAPEWELL A SUICIDE.

Had Been Despondent Since He Shot a Burglar at Gloucester.

Two Brooklyn Pier Bills and One on the Wages of Laborers.

CAPIOT, ALBANY, May 12—Gov. Flower this morning vetoed twenty bills of interest to New York City and vicinity are as follows:

Assembly Bill No. 1147, for the relief of Sophia G. Vandenberg, widow of Charles Vandenberg, deceased, and her children, from the payment of a debt of $100,000, which she contracted in the building of a market in New York City in 1900, and whether there is any ground for her claim.

Assembly Bill No. 1148, to authorize the city of New York to acquire land in the city of New York, and to provide for the same, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1149, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1150, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1151, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1152, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1153, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1154, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1155, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1156, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1157, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1158, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1159, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1160, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1161, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1162, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1163, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1164, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1165, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1166, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1167, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1168, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1169, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1170, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1171, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1172, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1173, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1174, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1175, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1176, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1177, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

Assembly Bill No. 1178, to regulate the compensation of laborers employed by the city of New York, and to provide for the same.

VICTIMS AND ACCOMPLICES.

Mrs. Bradford Believed to Be a Fugitive from the Law.

Lawyer Powell Says Other Persons Were Equally Culpable.

The case of Mrs. Bradford, who mysteriously disappeared from her home in Brooklyn owing about $100,000, as told on page three of "The Evening World," assumed a decidedly criminal aspect this afternoon.

Henry A. Powell, of 296 Broadway, lawyer for Charles J. Stoll, the broker, of 71 Graham avenue, Brooklyn, who is one of Mrs. Bradford's victims, said:

"It is a peculiar story all around. I believe the suicide theory was put forth by the Bradfords as a subterfuge to cover Mrs. Bradford's flight. I wouldn't be surprised to hear of her next in Canada, or she may be in Oceania. I believe she is a fugitive from the law."

"From what I know of the case I am inclined to believe that the Bradfords alone is not to blame. She had a number of confederates in my opinion, and I believe that all of them arrested and taken into custody. In fact when Stoll related the facts to me I advised him to go straight off to the District Attorney's office and swear out informations against all the parties connected with the transaction. It is absurd to believe that persons who interested themselves in getting Stoll and his partners to give money to Mrs. Bradford for investment should be so out of pure philanthropy. It looks like a conspiracy to defraud."

"Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

Mrs. Bradford, if found, will be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Stoll is a good-hearted, honest, and reliable man. He is slow to believe any one dishonest. A man by the name of J. H. Tietzenberg, of Bayonne, N. J., an old friend of Stoll, induced him to give the money to Mrs. Bradford, which I believe was done. As Tietzenberg has no property the notes are worth nothing."

ATTEMPTED A RESCUE.

Strikers Fail to Release a Man Arrested for Assault.

Striking silk weavers almost worked a riot in front of the Atlas Silk Works.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior.

Policeman Hadigan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, attracted to the place by the commotion, found that strikers had attacked and badly beaten some of the workmen, who had just left the mill. On Hadigan's approach, with drawn revolvers, the strikers opposed and attempted a rescue. Hadigan drew his revolver and held them at bay until Policemen Quinn and Lynch appeared, when the strikers fled. In the Yorkville Court house a young Englishman was held in $300 bonds for good behavior